In re: CRT Antitrust Litigation

Dear Kathy:

I write to memorialize the discussion we had on August 22, 2014 related to contact information for Agnes Martin, Christian Lissorgues, Didier Trutt, and Emeric Charamel. We reserve all rights related to your positions and write merely to memorialize our discussion on Friday.

You represented that you have been in contact with Martin, Trutt, and Charamel. You also represented that they will not consent to deposition. You said that you would nonetheless represent them if their depositions are secured. You represented that even though you have been in contact with them, you do not have their contact information, but could obtain it. You said you are considering whether you will take the position that French data protection laws would prohibit you from disclosing the contact information to us. You represented that there is a provision in the law that may permit you to disclose information if we consent to use it for the limited purpose of seeking to obtain the depositions through Hague procedures. You represented that you would get back to us once you have consulted with French counsel about this issue.

You also represented that you have been unable to locate Christian Lissorgues, but if we locate him, you would “offer to” represent him at a deposition.

Very truly yours,
